Did You Notice This Sleeper, Harvey, in Your Latest Release?

We don't know who does the ghost writing for Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, or whether Harvey takes time to read over his own releases.

Harvey's latest deals with an announcement that Harvey's Republican Party of Pennsylvania is planning an all-out political action program to counteract the threat of foreign "isms."

Then he goes on to say: "We must arouse every citizen to the dangers of national socialism," which seems consistent with Harvey's way of thinking.

Then in the final paragraph: "The time has come to rationalize the political situation as it exists today. The preservation of free government depends entirely upon the willingness of the American people to decide public questions on the basis of general national welfare—not on the narrow considerations of individual or group selfishness." Which doesn't sound consistent with the previous statement or with Harvey's way of thinking.

We believe Harvey's ghost writer tucked a sleeper in that final paragraph. We believe he tucked a great truth in the release that even Harvey would be hard put to understand.

It is because America has been forced to take government action "on the basis of general national welfare" that elements of so-called national socialism are manifesting themselves in Washington today. It is because the states were falling down and the old public charities failing to function that the Federal government had to step in with plans for relief and work projects. It was on these wings of political endeavor that the New Deal was born.

Harvey's release is quite correct.

He is also correct in saying that these questions must be decided "on the basis of general national welfare" and "not on the narrow considerations of individual or group selfishness."

You or your ghost writer have said a lot, Harvey. Do you mean to stick to it? Not just draw the old red herring across the trail and then go fighting with the big finance boys on the side? Are you really going to fight the individuals and groups who are fighting "general national welfare"? Who are more interested in profits than people? Who are only double talking about full employment and would like to see limited employment and hampered labor unions and lower wages?

If you do, Harvey, you are going to have to sacrifice a lot of your present playmates.

Or is this your ghost writer talking?

If so, why not run him for the next governor of the Commonwealth. What he says—especially that concluding paragraph—makes sense.

General 'Hap' Arnold in the Congressional Record

The Main Line's greatest single contribution to this war has been General H. H. Arnold, who was born in Gladwyne.

Recognition of the stubborn determination with which General Arnold sought to prepare this country for the battles to come were written into the Congressional Record the other day by Congressman Carl Hinshaw of California. It was a newspaper column by Marquis Childs of May 7 that according to Congressman Hinshaw paid General Arnold the tribute he deserved.

"During the past week," says the article, "German field marshals and industrialists have testified that it was our air power which blasted away their hope of victory before allied forces invaded the continent."

"The author of that destruction was General Arnold. He had the courage to go all out on a program of fighter and bomber construction that, in its inception, seemed fantastic. He bullied that program through. He risked everything on it, success."

"On Arnold's judgment billions upon billions of dollars were thrown into the construction of B-17s and fighter bombers. If they had failed, then the blame would have fallen on Arnold. It would have come down on him like a ton of brick."

"General Arnold has been perfectly well aware of that. It was one reason why he sometimes seemed to be boastful and brash. That was a defensive reaction."

Then, too, he was constantly battling the skepticism and doubt of the ordinary individual, who simply could not take in the meaning of this new weapon. Intelligence reports showed what was happening, but there were few who could credit those reports. Sometimes when we met with him in off-the-record sessions, General Arnold blustered at us.

"I can understand that bluster now. We were still back in the pre-war age. We couldn't believe what this big man with the bellicose look was telling us."

Narberth Club Forced To Restrict Gasoline Rations Of 6 Main Line Motorists; Jersey Justice Is Evidence

Harman Presides at Hearing in Ardmore; Car Owners Charged With Exceeding 35 Miles An Hour; All Out-of-State Convictions

New Jersey justice is being used as evidence in curtailing the gasoline rations of Main Line motorists accused of speeding. The wartime speed limit, fixed by Federal OPA regulations, is 35 miles an hour.

Announcement that six motorists, one a physician, had been deprived of their gasoline ration for one week, was made by the Ardmore War Price and Rationing Board Tuesday.

All of them were arrested for speeding in New Jersey. Cases of all six were heard by Henry M. Harman, chairman of the Ardmore board, with Mrs. R. T. Dalglish, chairman of the gasoline rationing panel, sitting alongside taking notes.

According to OPA regulations on procedure, "a panel consisting of one or more board members should be designated to supervise or conduct hearings but the final decision in every case shall be made by the panel."

It is presumed that decisions in the cases of the six motorists were made by the Ardmore gasoline rationing panel. According to information obtained from other Main Line rationing boards Pennsylvania police are not now forwarding names of motorists arrested for speeding to OPA officials. Most of the names received from outside states come from New Jersey.

Policy in handling cases of motorists convicted of speeding varies sharply from that of the Ardmore rationing board. Other suburban ration boards contacted are not imposing any penalties for the first offense. Many ration officials feel that it is "unfair" to impose gasoline restrictions on drivers arrested in New Jersey when Pennsylvania police are not following the same procedure.

According to the legal department of the OPA office in Philadelphia, continued on Page Two

by BETSY-ANN

Dear Ed:

The weather over the weekend was perfect. No rain for a change and not too hot with a breeze blowing in for good measure.

So many people are away this "village" seems sort of deserted.

The Bond Booth closed Saturday, not to open again until September.

The Red Cross work room will be closed July 30 until September 13.

The Media Drive store closes every evening at 6 o'clock, and is closed all day Sunday.

The Arcadia Restaurant is closed Sundays but then you can always have Sunday dinner at the Windsor Essex Inn from 12:30 until 7 o'clock. They really serve a delicious dinner. You know the government returned their two May Hotel recently, and the "Batten House" is open again.

They have been famous for years for their excellent cuisine.

You know the independent ways in which close Wednesday at noon during the summer months.

This year Max's Market is closed all day Monday instead of Wednesday.

Found four new books in the library.

"The Double Agent," Hildegarde Tohman Teitel. Set in France just after the defeat of Germany, this exciting spy story tells of two Americans fleeing for their lives into the wild, high country of the Massif Central.

"34 Charlton," Rene Kuhn. Against a time-mellowed background of old New York, is written a story of a family who has lived for generations at 34 Charlton Street.

"A Durable Fire," Dorothy James Roberts. This story concerns a woman and a man, many years in which love reshapes her experiences into meaning and creation.

"Marta of Muscovy," Phil Strong. The fabulous life of Russia's first empress.

In going to a house party at Avalon this week, expect to have a lot of fun.

Three Little Fires Put Out By 31 Firemen in 42 Min.

At the Narberth Borough Council meeting, Monday night, Chief Engineer Albert McNulty's monthly report stated that it took a total of 31 firemen only 42 minutes to extinguish three fires. The report, presented by William P. Davies, in the absence of Franklin C. Hutchinson, chairman of the public safety committee, also stated that there were no fire drills during June.

Louis A. Young, chairman of the building committee, stated that three building permits were issued at a cost of $6, with the building costing $1,225.

Labor expenses of the Borough for the month of June, amounted to $1,392 for 1,621 working hours, reported Walter A. Fox, chairman of the water, light and health committee. Robert M. Cameron, stated that 14 garage complaints were received during the month. During that time 33 street lights were reported out.

Tighten Up Control of Eating Places

Lower Merion Township's public eating and drinking places must conform to rigid health and sanitary standards if they want to obtain licenses to operate. A series of inspections, preparatory to the enforcement of a new State law passed by the General Assembly May 23, already has been started by the Lower Merion Health Board.

Leading up to stricter enforcement a Cynwyd policeman, who was arrested and fined because of unsanitary conditions prevailing in his store.

Health Officer Robert J. Thomas said yesterday that the Lower Merion board was still awaiting specific directives from the State before licenses were issued. The licenses will cost a dollar and will be good for one year. Applications for licenses have been received from Lower Merion's 118 eating and drinking establishments. Thomas said.

Proprietors have until November 23 to obtain licenses. If they fail to do so, they will be subject to the health board to see that restaurant owners complied with the regulations of the State act and additional regulations passed by the Advisory Health Board which met on June 20.

Abraham Pomerantz, who operates the Cynwyd Delicatessen on Levering Mill Rd., was fined at a

Ask Councilmen For Permanent Home In Community Building

Teen-Age Group Has Had To Move Six Times In 15 Months; Equipment Now Stored In Garage; Girls Will Have Say

The Narberth Boys' Club, which has been bounced from pillar to post since its organization 15 months ago, was "on the town" again this week.

Monday night the chairman of the adult committee directing the boys' activities appeared before the Narberth Borough Council and asked for help in obtaining a permanent headquarters for the boys.

Wednesday the boys had to vacate an empty store at 33 N. Narberth Ave., which they had been using as a meeting place.

Move to Garage

Their paraphernalia and sports equipment now has been stored in a garage owned by Robert Hobson, treasurer of the boys' committee.

Within the 15 months of its existence the boys have been forced to change headquarters about six times.

Membership of the Narberth Boys' Club represents the teen-age group with ages running from 15 to 18 years, inclusive. The younger age group, a separate branch of the Boys Club, has been meeting in the American Legion room of the Narberth Community Building.

Headquarters accommodations have become so uncertain for the teen-age group that they have taken to buying collapsible equipment. They have folding ping pong and pool tables that can be erected or taken down at a moment's notice.

Girls To Have Say

Otto B. Duer, Narberth magistrate and chairman of the boys' committee, asked the Council for permission to use a wing of the Community Building as a regular meeting place for the boys. The wing is used now by the Women's Community Club and the Girl Scouts with the girls having priority right.

William P. Davies, chairman of the property committee, which has jurisdiction over the Community Building, told Duer he would discuss the matter with Girl Scout officials. If it was agreeable to them and there was no conflict with the Women's Club he indicated permission would be granted.

Meetings, starting at 7:30 P. M., are held every Tuesday by the Boys Club. Between 25 and 30 boys attend. Their activities are supervised by a committee of older men consisting of Duer, chairman, John Neely, vice-chairman, Donald Reed, secretary, Howard H. Hunsicker, athletic director, and Charles Iretz and Patrick Mariano, members of the executive committee.

Raised Money

The boys have developed a year-around recreation program of indoor and outdoor activities. Last year the Narberth Boys Club teams were runner-up in the Main Line Junior Baseball and Basketball Leagues.

Through their efforts and private donations they raised $1,350 during the first year. The money has been spent for athletic equipment. They have obtained suits for football and baseball squads consisting of 20 players each.

The Narberth Boys Club is a member of the Main Line Federation of Boys Clubs and participates in the basketball, football and other league games of the Federation.

Hears Report On Conference

Mrs. Jacobs Gives Her Impression of San Francisco Meeting

Mrs. Yarnall Jacobs, civic leader, relayed her impressions of the San Francisco Conference at a meeting at Haverford College, Thursday afternoon. The meeting was sponsored by the Women's Service Committee, an integral part of the American Friends Service Committee's 16th annual Institute of International Relations.

Mrs. Jacobs served at the conference as a representative of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia, of which she is secretary and chairman of the Intercultural Committee. She is also a member of the Board of Education and the Philadelphia Forum.

She said "We feel the San Francisco Conference marks a definite step forward in developing the relations that the groundwork of a peaceful world is being laid, no matter how painfully, and that we deplore the attitude of the defeatists who feel that we are only headed for trouble with Russia or other powers."

She was also impressed by the fact that the United States delegation had no Negro member. "We have left the conference convinced that one of the most important aspects of the great task of the American people is in the field of human relations," she said. "An ideology must be developed on the part of every American citizen involving the oneness of humankind. Physically our world is one. Americans generally recognize that fact today. What they do not recognize, however, is the scientific fact that human-kind is also one."
